

To whom it may concern,

The experience I gained through my internship with College Works Painting is something very few if any other internships can offer, in my opinion. I was exposed to every aspect of running a business. The internship was hard, it required a lot of time, but in the end, it was all worth it. I was able to acquire skills such as time management, customer service, sales techniques, production training, and many more.

The internship helped to open my eyes to the business world, how businesses work, and what it takes to run a small business. This internship has given me the confidence that first I can accomplish challenges and second that I can run a successful small business in any field if I so choose.

I would highly recommend and encourage this internship to anyone who is looking to develop skill sets that will separate him or her from others when it comes to interviewing for jobs.

Chances are low that you will earn the amount of money that you initially think you will but the experience and skills you will learn are invaluable.
